

Additional Course Costs and Materials:

At Part Two:

You will need Insurance (in order to practise case studies), Student Membership and the Biosonic C&G Tuning Forks

- College of Sound Healing Student Membership - £40 updated Jan 2023 (covers you for two years)
- Insurance for UK Student Members - £35.50 per annum. Overseas students can gain insurance from the IICT.
- Biosonic C&G Tuning Forks - between £53.00 and £60.00 plus postage available from the CoSH website or www.soundtravels.co.uk or biosonics.com

At Part Three:

- You will need the College Course CD and the Seven Healing Drones CD (the drone can also be created with a Shruti Box or similar)
- CDs are £10.00 each or £6 each to download from the College website

After Part Four:

- Marking Your Final Essay - £30.00 charge. The final essay is sent to an external examiner, you will receive feedback directly from her

First Aid Course (required to graduate):

- The First Aid Plus Online Course covers you for 3 years and costs £35. Other First Aid Courses may be more expensive.

Additional Sound Healing Workshops:

As well as completing the core curriculum students will need to complete one or two additional Sound Healing Workshops in order to broaden and deepen their knowledge of Sound Healing through different mediums e.g. working with Gongs, Giving a Group Sound Bath etc.

These workshops can be taken before or during attending the core curriculum.

Students can choose from one of these options:

- Two one-day workshops (minimum 6 hours per day)
- One weekend workshop (minimum 12 hours)
- The College of Sound Healing Conference

The cost will vary depending on which workshops you choose to attend.

- A one-day workshop will cost between £50 -£90.
- A two-day workshop will cost around £170 – £185